Input Meeting for Flood-Affected Households

The City of Duluth has been working with the State of Minnesota on an application for National Disaster Resilience Competition funding. The purpose of this federal program is to assist communities that experienced disasters in 2011-2013 complete rebuilding activities in a manner that makes them more resilient to the impacts of future climate change.

As part of the application process, the City is hosting an input session for flood-affected households at:

City Center West
5830 Grand Avenue
Duluth, MN
September 21, 5:30-7:30

The meeting agenda includes background information on the National Disaster Resilience Competition, highlight of anticipated projects, and design input session for household assistance.
