City of Duluth Offers New Technology for Job Applications

Job seekers can apply with a new, more user-friendly online system

The City of Duluth has launched a new software system to improve the hiring process for job seekers and personnel managers. Job seekers are able to quickly learn more about job vacancies and apply online to numerous positions currently open via <http://www.duluthmn.gov/human-resources/jobs/>. Interested candidates can also sign up to receive notifications about new openings that become available.

The City of Duluth has partnered with NEOGOV, the nation's largest cloud software for HR in government and education. Using this technology, HR and department managers can access online records to expedite hiring and provide greater accountability when selecting new employees.

This new software streamlines the job search and application process for job seekers. Instead of applying for multiple job openings at once, candidates can submit multiple applications all electronically.

The new system also allows hiring managers to more effectively create minimum qualifications to sort through a pool of applicants. With the new system, administrative work and technical maintenance costs are reduced as this workload is handled by the NEOGOV system.

The City of Duluth now joins over 1,000 organizations across the nation which have moved into cutting edge online technology for personnel management.
