Duluth Parks and Recreation seeks public input for Park Point Recreation Area Plan

[DULUTH, MN] Duluth Parks and Recreation, in collaboration with LHB, is developing a Park Point Recreation Area Plan. The plan development allows parks planners to examine existing facilities, explore and identify opportunities for improvement, and engage with community members to ensure the future park plan reflects community values and priorities.

Using input from a community engagement session conducted earlier this summer, LHB's design team developed several preliminary concept plans for the Park Point Recreation Area. Each conceptual plan shows different options for revitalizing the recreation area and creating a vibrant hub for recreation, community activities, and enjoying nature. Duluth Parks and Recreation is excited to share these concept plans with the community and seeks feedback and ideas from community members.

Community members can submit input via an online survey. This online community survey can be found at: publicinput.com/parkpointrecaarea. The survey will be open through August 31, 2025.

The City of Duluth would like to thank residents for their time and consideration in adding their voices to this process.
